PRACTICAL HEALTH TALKS

Liilian Whitney, M.D.

Dr. Whitney's popular articles on health and beauty subjects in several leading magazines have been attracting marked attention for a number of years. No other writer on similar topics is better equipped for the work. Dr. Whitney has established an enviable reputation as a specialist and is endowed with the ability to make herself easily understood by her readers. She will answer all letters relating to her department as promptly as possible. All letters should be accompanied by a stamped envelope and should be addressed care of this paper.

THE EYELIDS AND EYELASHES.

Granulated eyelids almost always call for glasses. This condition usually springs from impaired vision that has been unrelieved for a long time. Thus if the eyes are near or far sighted or there exists some other defect, and despite this the eyes are in constant use, a state of chronic congestion is established which results in the severe inflammation called "granulated lids," because the delicate membrane is studded with tiny granulations that resemble minute grains of sand. An eye specialist should always be consulted in such cases, as nothing but glasses will permanently relieve the trouble.

Dry, red, itching borders of the lids are also quite a common affection of the eyes. Some people are habitually troubled in this way, working in dust, smoke, or a very bright light sometimes gives rise to it; children who are constitutionally delicate, or who are underfed, frequently are troubled with excessive use of the eyes may also bring it about.

In some chronic cases, scales and crusts form which are removed with difficulty, carrying the lashes away with them. Bathing the lids with a warm solution of carbonate of soda (two drams of soda to a pint of warm water) will soften the scales and facilitate its removal without undue loss of the lashes. The solution can be dropped on the lids with cotton. After they have been thoroughly cleansed, an ointment should be gently applied. There are various good ointments in general use among eye specialists for this purpose; perhaps the favorite is the yellow oxide of mercury, 1/2 to 1 per cent in equal parts of vaseline or lanolin. This makes a very weak ointment, but it is more soothing and healing than stronger preparations that frequently irritate the eyes. Ointments used on the eyes must be carefully prepared and put up in small quantities so that they are always fresh. A few drops of sweet oil rubbed up with the finely powdered mercury before it is added to the vaseline makes a very delicate and smooth ointment, the use of which I can heartily recommend. Any reliable druggist can make up a small amount at short notice.

Styes are troublesome little boils that form at the root of an eyelash. They can often be prevented from developing by pulling out the particular eyelash involved. This is easily done with a pair of small pliers or forceps; otherwise very warm water (a heaping teaspoonful of borax to a pint of hot water) should be applied to the sty repeatedly. This may succeed in aborting it or "ripen" it, which is the best policy. When the sty has opened with a sterilized needle and rubbed with the ointment mentioned above, which hastens its cure. When sties become chronic, appearing in successive crops, the eye should be examined for some error in vision that can be corrected with glasses. This being the case, permanent relief follows their use.

Answers to Queries.

Weariness: The remedies recommended for the relief and cure of corns are usually also recommended for the removal of bunions, unless you mean deformity of the great toe joint with acute inflammation and pain. This condition is often referred to as bunion. Frequent bathing of the painful joint in very hot water with applications of tincture of iodine, will relieve the swelling. Bandages and shoes will probably insure you from further pain.

Olive B.: Thanks for your charming tribute. I am glad the suggestions were of so much service to you. No, my book on "Health and Beauty" is not yet published, owing to the immense amount of war material the makers of books are putting out. Do you wish your name filed for a notice?

Humble: The fact that you are so desirous to improve both in health and appearance raises you above the class to which you now belong. So ambitious a girl will not fail to elevate herself. Note what has been said to "Olive B." in doing your work, always wear gloves, and wear a clean pair during sleep after treating your hands for the night with warm cocoa butter.

Ethyl: A safe rouge is one made of beet juice and alcohol or white wine. Pound the beets in a chopper and express the juice through a strainer. To one ounce of beet juice add half ounce of alcohol or wine. Practice applying it until you have acquired the "art." Otherwise your color will deceive no one.

Straight Hair: Brilliantine is not a hair water. It is used to give the hair a gloss or brilliant sheen that is very attractive. Only a few drops are put on a clean hairbrush and swept repeatedly over the hair. Once a week is sufficient.

Robert E.: The arteries are not so much on the surface as the veins. Wherever you can find a pulse beat there you have an artery. The pulse beat corresponds to the heart beat. The most prominent and convenient surface pulse beat is the radial artery, on the thumb side of the arm. The temple artery can also be found very easily. It is sometimes very prominent.

DISTRICT COMMITTEE SEEKS PHONE FAKER

Persons Who Notified Members Body Would Not Meet Will Be Dealt With Severely, if Caught.

If the person or persons who sent telephone notices to virtually all members of the House District Committee to the effect that yesterday's meeting had been postponed can be apprehended, he is liable to be given an uncomfortable time before the bar of the House. That his efforts were unavailing and that the meeting scheduled for yesterday finally was held, is due to the intuition of Representative Mapes, to whom the telephone message did not sound bona fide. It is supposed the effort was made by some one interested in preventing a report on a piece of District legislation.

The District Committee yesterday instructed Chairman Johnson to prepare a unanimous consent calendar for the committee with a view to holding a special meeting and reporting out as much legislation against which there is no objection as can be handled. The hope is by this method to avoid the jam which District legislation promises to meet when the House steam roller struts out to push through necessary legislation in time for a comparatively early adjournment.

MOTHERS FAVOR KEATING BILL

Indorse Measure Prohibiting Transportation of Products Made by Child Labor.

SUNDAY FORUM OPPOSED

Ernest H. Daniel Presents Views of Board of Education—Vote to Be Taken at Next Session.

The Keating child labor bill was indorsed by the District Congress of Mothers in monthly session yesterday, in the Raleigh Hotel. The indorsement was given following a discussion of the measure by its author and a report from the committee investigating the matter. Mrs. Henry T. Rainey, wife of Representative Rainey, of Illinois, is chairman of the committee.

Representative Keating explained in detail his bill, which would prevent the interstate shipment of goods manufactured or produced by children. The minimum ages of the children vary in different occupations.

Mrs. Rainey submitted her report favoring the bill, the report being drawn up after tedious and prolonged research work into the question. On her committee are Mrs. John Culbertson, Mrs. F. P. Wilcox, Mrs. Louise M. Earle, Mrs. A. A. Birney, Mrs. Clagett and Mrs. White.

Ernest H. Daniel Spoke.

That the congress will take a stand at its next meeting in opposition to the opening of public schools on Sunday was forecast in discussions and motions at the session yesterday. The congress listened to Ernest H. Daniel, vice president of the Board of Education, who discussed the board's recent action in refusing the Grover Cleveland School to the Grover Cleveland Forum for Sunday use.

The congress adopted motions declaring their faith in the education board and offering co-operation. It is believed from this the organization will oppose the Sunday use of schools when the question is brought to a vote at the next meeting.

Mrs. Marie L. Von Unschuld, a delegate from the congress to the recent convention of the national congress in Nashville, Tenn., reported upon her work there.

Mrs. Giles Scott Rafters, president of the congress, presided at the session. Among the national officers present were Mrs. D. O. Mears, first vice president, of Massachusetts; Mrs. M. P. Higgins, second vice president, of Massachusetts; Mrs. A. A. Birney, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ella M. Thacher, treasurer.

HOROSCOPE.

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

Wednesday, April 19, 1916.

According to astrology this is an unfortunate day. Mars, Uranus and Saturn are all in evil aspect.

There is a sign of sinister omen for the sea. Losses of cargoes are indicated.

It is an unlucky day for journeymen or for initiative forestalling changes. Danger from tunnels or excavations of any sort is believed to be increased under this aspect.

Fire again are predicted. Some place of public meeting is menaced, the seers declare, and casualties are probable.

Astrologers forecast a sensational episode affecting a political candidate. The old come under an influence, which is read as foreshadowing honors and praise, that may prove funeral ceremonies, for the passing of the great will increase as the days grow longer.

Much mental unrest is prophesied and an increase of insanity may be noted, those who read the stars declare, because of the vast armies of spirits loosed on battlefields and supposed to linger near the earth because of untimely death.

Prison exposes and consequent reforms, long foretold, will increase in number, as the planets are held to cause the uncovering of injustice, graft and dishonesty of every sort.

According to ancient lore this should be a luck day for fishing.

Again it is predicted that July may be a month of serious import to Norway.

Artists should cultivate serenity and patience during the next few months, as they come under a leading that foreshadows delays but promises improved conditions for actors, musicians and painters.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have many worries in the coming year. They should not be extravagant or self-indulgent. Changes will be unlucky.

Children born on this day may be restless and inclined to rove. These subjects of Taurus, with Aries characteristics, are likely to be stubborn and strong mentally.

Protest Higher Ship Rates.

Protests against the conferring of authority upon proposed shipping board to regulate rates for ocean carriers were filed before the House Committee on Merchant Marine yesterday by a committee representing the merchant marine committee of the New York chamber of commerce. Several of the witnesses, including ship owners, said that the imposition of additional burdens upon the shipping industry at the present time would not only work a hardship, but would retard the development that has already begun.
